Ailing Jack to take leave of absence

► Outpouring of support from political foes, general public for NDP leader ► Party to appoint interim leader on Thursday

Only three months after riding Jack Layton's personal popularity to a historic electoral breakthrough, New Democrats are confronting the tragic possibility that they'll have to soldier on without their charismatic leader.

A frail, raspy-voiced Layton, who has been battling prostate cancer and a recent hip fracture, announced yesterday that he's been diagnosed with a new form of cancer.

The 61-year-old said he's taking a temporary leave of absence in order to "focus on treatment and recovery." Layton would not reveal what kind of cancer he has or what treatment he is undergoing. But he struck a resolutely optimistic tone, saying he expects to be back in the House of Commons on Sept. 19.

"I'm going to fight this cancer now so I can be back to fight for families when Parliament resumes," he told a surprise news conference in Toronto.

Privately, NDP insiders were shocked by Layton's appearance and how much he's deteriorated since his last public appearance on July 3. The once trim, athletic leader was gaunt and pale, his voice weak and hoarse.

His Ottawa staffers were informed of the announcement at a meeting 15 minutes before the news conference. Initially, one insider said staffers were pleased to hear that Layton — who cam-

Calgary film hub gets $10M

Calgary is now one step closer to becoming a competitive location for film and television production after council voted yesterday to dole out $10 million in funding.

The Alberta Creative Hub, a project spearheaded by Calgary Economic Development, will be a multipurpose facility, which will include sound stages and production studios. "The support of Calgary city council through the Cultural Space Investment Process highlights the city's ongoing commitment to arts and culture spaces," says Bruce Graham, president & CEO of Calgary Economic Development in a release.

Library site still in question

A press release sent out prematurely by city officials last night left aldermen shaking their heads as they left council chambers.

At 8:40 p.m., while council was still in camera, a city release was sent out indicating the East Village had been approved for the new central library. However, after council emerged from closed doors, it became clear the site has not yet been officially approved.

Council will reconvene at 1 p.m. today to discuss the new library site.

Community association wants cans out of alleys

► Renfrew looks to avoid dumping of garbage cans ► Plastic-bag-style recycling encouraged, as is donating cans to charities or bottle depot

New measures are being taken by a Calgary community association to curb alleyway rummaging by homeless people.

The Renfrew Community Association is encouraging residents to avoid putting recyclable bottles and cans in the curbside blue bins, and has been running a monthly bottle drive to keep recyclables out of the alleyways, said an association representative.

The Renfrew area spokesperson, who didn't want to be named, said the decision was made on the advice of the Calgary Police.

Residents aren't convinced it's a solution.

"I don't think it's going to stop them," said Renfrew resident Anne Piskolti, who donates her cans.

Norway suspect ordered held

► Breivik threatens more violence ► Judge orders him to solitary confinement ► Thousands lay flowers in Oslo

The self-described perpetrator of Norway's deadly bombing and shooting rampage was ordered held in isolation at a hearing yesterday after calmly telling the court that two other groups of allies stand ready to join his murderous campaign.

Anders Behring Breivik has admitted bombing Norway's capital and opening fire on a political youth group retreat on an island near the capital. He told authorities he expects to spend the rest of his life in prison. Saying he wanted to save Europe from Muslim immigration, he entered a plea of not guilty that will guarantee him future court hearings and opportunities to address the public, even indirectly.

Police believe Breivik acted alone, despite his grand claims in a 1,500-page manifesto that he belonged to a modern group of crusaders. But they have not completely ruled out that he had accomplices.

Judge Kim Heger ordered Breivik held for eight weeks, including four in isolation.

Norway has been stunned by the attacks and riveted by Breivik's strange writings. Hundreds of reporters and locals thronged the courthouse ahead of his first court appearance yesterday, hoping to get their first glimpse of the man blamed for the deaths of 76 people — lowered yesterday from 93.

Attacks a concern for London 2012 Olympics

IOC president Jacques Rogge is confident police intelligence work will help avert any attack on the London Olympics similar to the bombing and shooting massacre in Norway.

Rogge said British security officials will have taken into account the type of attacks that shook Norway on Friday.

British Olympics Minister Hugh Robertson said the U.K. had already prepared for attacks by "lone wolves" but would re-examine its security plans in the wake of the twin attacks.

"Clearly, where there are lessons to be learned from Norway, we will learn them," he said.

Canadians rally around Layton

► Politics forgotten as NDP leader's announcement brings support from colleagues of all parties

Canadians set aside politics yesterday and stood in solidarity with NDP Leader Jack Layton, who announced he's leaving the job temporarily to fight an unexpected new cancer.

Layton had previously gone public with his struggle against prostate cancer, but his wan face, thin body and raspy voice at a Toronto news conference announcing his latest diagnosis triggered an emotional torrent of support as the depth of this illness became obvious to all.

"My heart breaks for Jack Layton and his family today. Bless his heart for maintaining such high spirits in the face of this terrible illness," said a tweet from a woman identifying herself as Lauren Gilhooly.

Her comment, one of thousands on Twitter, was matched on Layton's Facebook page, where hundreds of Canadians rushed to offer comforting words.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper, who sparred tartly with Layton in the recent election campaign, said he was "deeply saddened today to hear that Jack Layton is temporarily leaving his post as leader of Her Majesty's Official Opposition and leader of the New Democratic Party." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Layton recommends leader

Jack Layton has endorsed an interim leadership replacement because she's experienced, bilingual and, most importantly, she will not rock the boat.

The New Democrat leader recommended rookie Quebec MP Nycole Turmel as the temporary party leader while he undergoes cancer treatment.

The former leader of the Public Service Alliance of Canada has only sat in Parliament for less than three months; but she does have years of experience working with the federal government.

Layton says Turmel is an experienced national leader who has already earned the unanimous support of her colleagues in becoming the party's national caucus chair.

NDP president Brian Topp says the party expects to appoint an interim leader by Thursday afternoon.

RIM to downsize global workforce

► Canadian tech firm to release new BlackBerrys in '12

Research In Motion will cut 2,000 jobs, or about 11 per cent of its global workforce, this year to reduce costs in the competitive smartphone and tablet markets, in which consumers are increasingly turning to Apple and Android products.

The BlackBerry maker provided the details yesterday, about a month after announcing it would reduce its workforce after it had lower BlackBerry smartphone sales in the recent financial quarter.

"The workforce reduction is believed to be a prudent and necessary step for the long-term success of the company," RIM said in a statement.

"It follows an extended period of rapid growth within the company whereby the workforce had nearly quadrupled in the last five years alone."

In trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange, RIM's shares were down $1.28, or 4.8 per cent, at $25.19.

RIM, based in Waterloo, Ont., has about 19,000 employees. RIM is facing a host of competition in the smartphone market from Apple's iPhone and smartphones using Google's Android operating system.

Its PlayBook tablet, which met expectations of selling 500,000 in the recent quarter, has received lukewarm reviews compared with Apple's iPad.

"If they want to be a top-three or top-five smartphone player, then they have to much more aggressively spend money in the consumer market," said analyst Alkesh Shah of Evercore Partners.

"They have to create a differentiated consumer message," Shah said.

There aren't enough reasons for consumers to buy a BlackBerry smartphone or tablet over Apple or Android products, he said, suggesting RIM could promote its security feature, valued by business users, to a consumer audience.

Fake Apple shops busted

Chinese officials found five fake Apple stores and ordered two of them to suspend business while they're investigated, a local government website said yesterday.

Officials couldn't do anything about the other three stores — which displayed Apple signs and logos — because they did not find any fake Apple products for sale, a local newspaper reported.

The investigation follows a blog post last week by a U.S. woman living in Kunming in Yunnan province, who stumbled across three shops masquerading as Apple stores in the city. She took photos and posted them on her BirdAbroad blog.

She said they were modelled on the company's iconic stores right down to the winding staircase and the staff uniform of blue T-shirts.

The Kunming Trade and Industry Bureau inspected more than 300 electronics stores.

TABLE FOR TWO, PLEASE ... NON-CHILDREN

SHE SAYS ...

JESSICA NAPIER
METRO

Earlier this month, I read a news story about a Pennsylvania restaurant owner who has decided to ban children under the age of six at his establishment. While outraged parents condemned the restaurant for discriminating against their brood, some clientele welcomed the new policy, breathing a heavy sigh of relief knowing that their next $30 entrée wouldn't be served up with a side of screaming toddler.

Misbehaved children, and their seemingly oblivious guardians, can reduce a pleasant dining experience to an evening of exasperated eye-rolling. There have been plenty of times that I've given up on dessert or another glass of wine in order to get away from the piercing sound of a four-year-old in the middle of a temper tantrum.

So should the parents of these bratty customers be more considerate of their fellow patrons and leave the kids at home when dining out?

Some would argue that parents should be entitled to enjoy a meal with their offspring without being subjected to dirty looks from the next table. However, in my opinion, letting your precious angels run laps around the dining room or shriek hysterically while being force-fed broccoli is inexcusable. If you are unwilling or unable to control your children, you might want to skip the high-end restaurants and opt for a Happy Meal instead.

Irresponsible parents and their squealing spawn should be banished to family-friendly restaurants that provide crayons with their kids' menu. Sure, the food at these playground snack bars isn't exactly top-notch, but you have to sacrifice a little if you want arcade games as an appetizer.

But while misbehaved tots can be a serious annoyance, I've seen plenty of adults over the years who are just as bad, if not worse, when it comes to mealtime manners.

Grown-ups should know better but often they don't. They snap their fingers at the serving staff, request so many modifications they might as well eat at home and linger at the table while a lineup stretches out the door. Of course, the worst restaurant-goers are those who insist on conducting obnoxious cellphone conversations mid-meal with no regard for their dinner date or the increasingly annoyed patrons around them. The loudmouth suit screaming into his BlackBerry is just as disruptive as the little ones shrieking over their vegetables. Small children may not be ideal dinner companions, but there are also plenty of adults out there who could use a crash course in dining etiquette.

HAPPY MEALS. Emotions can be modified by the intake of food even when people don't taste the food or realize they are receiving nutrients, new research indicates. Participants in a study were blinded as to the nature of an intragastric infusion, and had 40-minute fMRI neurologic scans as they provided responses about their mood, fullness, hunger or nausea.

Sad or neutral emotions were induced with music played through headphones and with images of facial expressions depicting either sad or neutral emotions back-projected onto a screen.

Hunger scores rose during sad emotion and decreased during neutral emotion conditions. The effect of a sad mood was weakened by fatty acid.

"The novelty lies in the fact that it's purely subliminal or what we call unconscious brain signalling happening here," said lead author Dr. Lukas Van Oudenhove.

"Something I like about this study is that it starts from the body, from the stomach, and it goes to the brain," said Dr. Giovanni Cizza.

WEIRD NEWS

This is how you end up waking up in Vegas

One day in the spring of 1979, Arthur Gerald Jones, a well-connected Chicago financier and father of three, left his posh home to run an errand and vanished, never to return.

Despite the FBI's best efforts to figure out what happened to the powerful commodity trader, no trace was ever found of Jones. In 1986, an Illinois court declared him dead, and social security paid $47,000 in survivor benefits to his wife and children.

But late last week, the shroud of mystery enveloping the 32-year-old case was suddenly pulled back when Jones, now 72, was discovered living in Las Vegas, where he has been working as a bookie at a casino.

According to a court affidavit, Jones told a special investigator with the Social Security Administration that he had a seat on the Chicago Board of Trade as a commodities trader, but was forced to sell his seat to pay off a debt incurred when he made a trading error. He lost his job in the process and, fearing what investigators have speculated may have been relations with the Chicago mafia, Jones decided to leave his wife of 17 years and family.

New album

After more than four years, Leslie Feist is finally ready to release a new album. The eight-time Juno winner has announced that her fourth full-length, Metals, will be released on Oct. 4. The 12-song album was recorded with usual collaborators Chilly Gonzales and Moby.

The 35-year-old's last album, 2007's The Reminder, was a breakthrough hit, reaching platinum certification in Canada and going gold in the U.S.

Between last year's the Losers, this year's Thor and next year's Ghost Rider: Spirit of Vengeance, British actor Idris Elba seems to have a thing for comic book adaptations.

But there's still one superhero that's eluded him: Avengers member Luke Cage. Not that he's complaining, mind you.

Between two Emmy nominations, Ridley Scott's upcoming Alien prequel, Prometheus, and Guillermo del Toro's Pacific Rim, which starts shooting in October, the former Wire star has plenty to keep him busy.

Metro caught up with Elba in the middle of the Comic-Con madness for a status update.

What are you most excited to see or do while at Comic-Con?

Dude, I don't get to do anything. I do like seeing the audience react to what we've got to show them for Ghost Rider, because I just saw it and it's phenomenal.

You've been doing very well with comic book movies lately.

Well, two films, two characters, really. And the Losers as well.

I thought that film was good. It had a lot of opportunity to be better — not better but more well received. It didn't quite do it, but I liked the film. I thought it was well directed. Sylvain White did that, and he's great.

► Actors Idris Elba and Nicolas Cage speak at a Ghost Rider: Spirit of Vengeance panel during Comic-Con 2011 in San Diego last week.

Speaking of comic book characters, you've mentioned wanting to play Luke Cage in a film.

I'd like having a shot at that. But listen, we need to know there's an appetite for that. I need the audiences that like Luke Cage to come up and say they want to see a Luke Cage film with me in it.

I'm part of the Marvel family, and I think now they might be aware that there's this little appetite to do it, but at the same time, I'm also part of the Thor story, so we'll see.

What can you tell us about Prometheus?

I have to say, it's an enormous film — enormously rich in its depth, its complexity. The filmmaking is second to none.

It's none other than the great Ridley Scott, and there are some really good actors in it. I can say this: The wait for Ridley to return to a film like that is definitely going to be rewarded with something exciting You've had a few roles now for which people recognize you. What comes up most?

The Wire, mainly. It was my first American calling card. But now Luther is starting to, and then Heimdall [in Thor], believe it or not. A lot of people are actually like that. It's a tiny part in that film — huge film, tiny part, but it definitely has resonated with some people.

Source Code

Genre: Sci-fi

Director: Duncan Jones

Stars: Jake Gyllenhaal, Michelle Monaghan

Source Code's almost risible collision of the bogus science and cranial confusion recalls Groundhog Day, Inception and Avatar. It also shares the isolation and alienation found in Moon, director Duncan Jones' heralded debut.

Continually returning to its opening scene, the film has Jake Gyllenhaal chatting up Michelle Monaghan on a Chicago commuter train, in a situation meant to remind us of Strangers on a Train. It's more schlock than Hitchcock, but here's where good casting and a little patience pay off.

Gyllenhaal is U.S. army Capt. Colter Stevens, a decorated helicopter pilot who awakens to find himself part of a science experiment.

The science is sketchy, to say the least. Jones allows Jeffrey Wright, as the Source Code project head, to ham it up with a wacky professor turn.

Better that Jones should concentrate on the performances, and he gets three fine ones from Gyllenhaal, Monaghan and Farmiga, who invest a good deal of emotion into a farcical situation.

If all else fails, it's a decent thriller at a brisk 93 minutes, including all the repeats. 🍿 PETER HOWELL

Cause of death unknown after Winehouse autopsy

► Family visits memorial outside home ► Spokesperson says funeral will be held today

An autopsy on singer Amy Winehouse Monday failed to determine what killed the 27-year-old star, leaving fans and family with a weeks-long wait for the results of toxicology tests.

Winehouse's devastated parents visited mourners outside her north London home to thank them for their support.

The singer, who had struggled with drug and alcohol abuse for years, was found dead Saturday at home by a member of her security team, who called an ambulance. It arrived too late to save her.

The Metropolitan Police said Monday that a forensic post mortem "did not establish a formal cause of death and we await the results of further toxicology tests." Those are expected to take two to four weeks. An inquest into the singer's death was opened and adjourned at London's St. Pancras Coroner's Court. During the two-minute hearing, an official read out the name, birth date and address of Winehouse, described as "a divorced lady living at Camden Square NW1."

"She was a singer songwriter at the time of her death and was identified by her family here at St. Pancras this morning," said coroner's officer Sharon Duff.

Duff said the scene of Winehouse's death "was investigated by police and determined non-suspicious."

In Britain, inquests are held to establish the facts whenever someone dies violently or in unexplained circumstances. Assistant Deputy Coroner Suzanne Greenaway said Winehouse's inquest would resume on Oct. 26.

The singer's father, mother and brother visited her home yesterday, stopping to inspect the mounds of bouquets, candles and handwritten notes across the road from the Victorian house.

Her father, Mitch Winehouse, thanked mourners for their tributes.

"I can't tell you what this means to us — it really is making this a lot easier for us," he said.

While Glee boss Ryan Murphy recently said stars Lea Michele, Cory Montheith and Emmy nominee Chris Colfer would be leaving the show after next season, that may not actually be the case. "Here's the exact thing: [The characters] are seniors, so they're graduating," executive ► Kids who watch too much TV are at increased risk of obesity, hypertension and glucose intolerance.

Turn off and tune in ► Children who take in high amounts of television are at heightened risk of chronic disease

CELIA MILNE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Peel those kids away from the TV this summer.

A study conducted at Queen's University in Kingston, Ont., has found that children and adolescents who watched more than four hours per day of TV were 2.5 times more likely to have heightened risks for chronic disease than those who watched less than an hour per day.

The study was looking for cardio-metabolic risk factors, which are signals that the body could be heading in the direction of heart disease and type 2 diabetes.

These included obesity, hypertension, fats in the blood and glucose intolerance.

"These risk factors are becoming more prevalent in children and adolescents," says Valerie Carson, a PhD student in the school of kinesiology and health studies, who was lead author on the paper.

"This particular study found the most significant health risk at greater than four hours per day (of TV). This is concerning because these risk factors can track from childhood to adulthood," she adds.

Carson and her supervisor Ian Janssen, associate professor in the school of kinesiology and health studies at Queen's, took into account age, gender, ethnicity, socioeconomic status, physical activity levels and diet, and still drew the same conclusion.

"Even if children and adolescents are active, if they engaged in high daily TV use, they may still have cardio-metabolic risk factors," says Carson.

For the study, she and Dr. Janssen studied the habits of 2,527 children and adolescents who were enrolled in the National Health and Nutrition Examination Surveys (NHANES).

TV is really quite wicked: other studies have found excessive screen time is linked to increased violence, negative self-image, and higher amounts of smoking, drinking and drug use.

Carson's article was published recently in the journal BMC Public Health.

Hi Charles:

I am planning a summer party and I'm inviting most of my family. One of my cousins, however, is married to a guy I can't stand. If I am hosting and paying for this party, may I invite my cousin and ask her not to bring her husband? Patsyb

Dear Patsyb:

I fully understand your feelings. We've all been in your shoes! I think this is the real problem... if you don't invite your cousin's husband, you will do more damage and create more of a scene than if you do invite him.

You risk really offending your cousin and you will put her in a very awkward position. Ask yourself: what is she supposed to tell her husband about why he can't come to your party?

It's not fair that your cousin be placed in that position. You have two choices: invite the cousin with her husband or don't invite either of them. If you're a good sport, you will invite them both and find someone you can invite to keep the pesky husband occupied in conversation so he leaves you all alone!

FUN AND FRUGAL

MONEY@METRONEWS.CA

It's tempting to buy the latest gadget the moment it hits the market. But, being an early adopter is expensive. I recommend taking the "fast follower" approach, which means waiting to buy until after the initial product hype clears, prices decrease, and the next generation of technology offers greater value for the same price.

There are three products to avoid buying brand new or upon their launch; cars, computers and electronics.

New cars depreciate between 15 and 20 per cent in the first year of ownership. So, forget buying new and save thousands by picking up a one- or two-year-old car with low mileage at a lower price. For an even deeper discount, buy a three or four year lease return. These have to pass high inspection standards when they're returned and they can often be purchased for less than 50 per cent of the original purchase price.

These days computers aren't optional. But unless you require video stream or high-end design functionality, you can get by with a machine that is a couple of years old. Consider a scaled down version or buying when there are sales.

First generation tablets and phones are expensive when launched. Shortly after their release, prices drop and much better second generation versions appear.

Video games, consoles, televisions, cameras and other electronics are priced at a premium. Wait to buy or scope out an online deal.

Being a fast follower saves you big bucks. Plus, you'll still get great products!

Help your kids avoid debt

ALISON GRIFFITHS
MONEY@METRONEWS.CA

For new parents, here's the bottom line. If you don't get serious about saving for post-secondary studies, that cooing little bundle is almost certainly going to be severely burdened by student debt.

If current trends continue, a four-year degree is likely to cost $80,000 for live-at-home students by 2025 and $125,000 for those away from home.

The good news is that new parents are putting aside those education pennies. Across Canada, nearly 90 per cent of those with young children have started saving, according to the TD Canada Trust 2011 Education and Finances Survey.

Thinking ahead

Do you have an RESP for your child?

- ▶ 89% of parents under 35
- ▶ 60% of parents age 45-54

The goal for those with younger children should be to get the maximum Canada Education Savings Grant of 20 per cent on the first $2,500 annually per child contributed to an RESP (Registered Education Savings Plan). That's a little over $200 monthly. Even if you just invest the money in GICs and bonds you'll have about $40,000 after 10 years and nearly $90,000 after 18.

For parents of teens, education financing is a big stress point. TD's survey discovered that more than 85 per cent of parents (at least in Ontario) with kids under 18 don't expect to be able to pay the shot for

Interestingly, fewer of those parents expect their children to help pay for their own education, 31 per cent down from 39 per cent last year. The decline may have to do with the difficulty in finding summer jobs.

My daughter, a student chef, has only managed irregular shifts so far this summer at two different restaurants.

Parents with teens, and little in the way of savings, might consider postponing education. A couple of years of living at home and working, even at a minimum wage job, could easily mean the difference between a decade of debt and a nearly debt-free degree.

Working roughly 35 hours a week at minimum wage will bring in about $20,000 annually. Saving 75 per cent of that over two years is $30,000. For a live-at-home student-to-be, that money, along with RESP savings, will go a long way to reducing student debt.

NFL season a go as players accept offer

Now it can be said with certainty: Get ready for some football!

NFL players voted to OK a final deal yesterday, days after the owners approved a tentative agreement, and the sides finally managed to put an end to the 4½-month lockout.

"This is a long time coming, and football's back," NFL commissioner Roger Goodell said, "and that's the great news for everybody."

At a joint appearance outside NFL Players Association headquarters in Washington, Goodell and NFLPA head DeMaurice Smith were flanked by some of the owners and players who were involved in the talks. They spoke shortly after the NFLPA executive board and 32 team reps voted unanimously to approve the terms of a deal.

"We didn't get everything that either side wanted ... but we did arrive at a deal that we think is fair and balanced," Smith said.

Owners overwhelmingly approved a proposal Thursday, but some unresolved issues still needed to be reviewed to satisfy players.

The sides worked through the weekend and wrapped up the details yesterday morning on a final pact that runs for 10 years, without an opt-out clause, a person familiar with the deal told the AP on condition of anonymity.

Owners can point to victories, such as gaining a higher percentage of all revenue, one of the central issues — they get 53 per cent, the players get 47 per cent. The old deal was closer to 50-50. There's also a system that will rein in spending on first-round draft picks.

Players, meanwhile, persuaded teams to commit to spending nearly all of their salary cap space in cash and won changes to practice rules that should make the game safer.

Burris forecasts greatness for Stamps

▶ QB upbeat after 2-2 start to the season and loss to Edmonton

Calgary Stampeders quarterback Henry Burris took to Twitter in the wake of Saturday's disappointing home loss to the Edmonton Eskimos, reassuring anyone who would listen that his team will turn things around.

"We will be a great team this year! Mark my word!" Burris tweeted Sunday morning, a night after the Stampeders dropped a 24-19 decision to the Eskimos.

His tune was unchanged yesterday as Calgary (2-2) looks to regroup heading into a Week 5 clash with Saskatchewan.

"I said it on Twitter and I'll say it again," Burris said. "We will be a great team before the season's over. We're building to make that happen now."

Stampeders receiver Nik Lewis echoed the veteran pivot, adding the team has the confidence to get back on track this

"It's such a long season. At some point we're going to hit that surge and it's going to carry us for a long time."

HENRY BURRIS

Saturday in Regina against the Roughriders (1-3).

"My biggest thing is staying positive, because if you don't stay positive then this is going to carry over and you're going to stop working as hard," Lewis said. "So, stay positive, keep working hard and hey, we're going to keep grinding it out."

Defensive back Brandon Smith could only watch as Edmonton receiver Fred Stamps got behind him on two occasions for a pair of touchdown grabs. He said the Stampeders haven't lost any of their confidence because of the setback.

"We're still mentally and physically in it," he said. "It's fixable. All the problems that happened are on film and are fixable. We haven't lost any faith or any confidence or anything like that. We're just going to go back and get back to it and move on."

Calgary coach and general manager John Hufnagel said he wasn't surprised the players' reaction.

"We're a 2-2 team," he said. "We're in second place in the West with a lot of season ahead of us. If they have lost their confidence after four games of the season after being 2-2, I would be disappointed in them."

The Stampeders will have to bounce back against the Riders without the services of all-star linebacker Juwan Simpson, who went down with a knee injury against the Eskimos.

"He'll be out for a couple weeks at least," said Hufnagel, who referred to the injury as a strain.

Robert McCune will replace Simpson in the starting lineup, while Akwasi Antwi will serve as his backup.

Another concern for Calgary is the kicking game. With Rob Maver already out of the lineup with a torn quad muscle, Rene Paredes struggled against Edmonton, missing field goals from 39 and 35 yards out.

"He had a rough ending to the game, but like I said before I was disappointed in both areas of our kicking," said Hufnagel, who wasn't impressed with how punter Burke Dales performed either. "We need to improve."

As for the possibility of bringing back former Calgary kicker Sandro DeAngelis into the fold, Hufnagel said he has no such plans.

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 You have been expecting too much from a relationship. Focus on what you have in common, not on what divides you.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Set yourself a reasonable work schedule and make sure you stick to it.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 There is no need to change your life in any radical way.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Never forget that the best way to change the world is to change yourself first.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 Don't worry if you are not in the most-suitable of moods today because you have important things to think about.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 Look out for your own interests today.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 If there is something you have overlooked, or ignored, you will have to face up to it and deal with it today.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 It's time for a reality check.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Why are you clinging on to something that is past its sell by date?

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Do everything in your power to make sure that employers and people in positions of authority know who you are and what you can do.

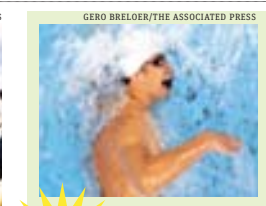

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Life will be a breeze today.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. Generally you steer clear of events over which you have no control, but today you will go out of your way to take risks. Maybe tomorrow you'll regret it but your hunches are often right. SALLY BROMPTON
